ABOUT

Pancreas 2000 is the official post-graduate program of the European Pancreatic Club (EPC). The program prepares young gastroenterologists, surgeons, radiologists, and other clinicians for a specialization in the up-and-coming field of pancreatology

OBJECTIVES

The program is designed to ensure that both knowledge and skills are transferred from one generation of clinicians to the next. As a result, Pancreas 2000 has a direct significant impact on the field as well as on patients and the standard of care. The majority of Pancreas 2000 graduates are now leaders in the field

CURRICULUM

Three areas of focus

- 1) A high-quality, comprehensive education in all aspects of pancreatology
- 2) Training in scientific methods and the development of research skills
- 3) Leadership, personal development, and scientific research methods
